EMILY LOST SOMEONE SHE LOVED

Kids sometimes learn about loss early in life. This beautifully illustrated book helps kids deal with the pain and grief they're experiencing, all while learning that God is closer than they might imagine and understands what they're going through. $16.99; amazon.com

BEAMO

As the weather gets warmer and kids head outside for fresh air, consider bringing along Beamo. It's a flying hoop that's 16 inches in diameter and made of foam and Lycra, so it's easy to grab and throw—up to 100 feet! $9.95; forsmallhands.com

THOUGHTFULS

These colorful boxes of cards are perfect for your volunteers—or yourself! Each themed pack comes with 30 pop-open cards with inspirational quotes and timeless messages. They're just the thing to brighten a rough day. $6.95 each; live-inspired.com

MONKEY FIDGET EXERCISER

Some kids with autism need to fidget to feel comfortable. With the Monkey Fidget Exerciser, kids use their fingers to give the monkey different faces. With kids' help, he can wiggle his ears, crinkle his nose, and stick out his tongue. $12.79; therapyshoppe.com

LOVE, LEXI: LETTERS TO GOD

Author Sherry Kyle's unique take on the traditional devotional weaves together fictional letters from preteen Lexi to God, short devotional thoughts, journaling pages, and daily responses straight from God's Word. $12.99; amazon.com

COOK 'N STORE KITCHEN

This mini kitchen looks like a typical playset, complete with 32 accessories, a clicking oven, stove-top knobs, and a Lazy Susan. It's perfect for bringing out toddlers' imagination. But what makes this set unique is that it compactly folds up for easy storage when space is at a premium. $69.99; littletikes.com
